HISTORIC VALLEY ADOBE

The story of the lovely Boronda Adobe in Carmel Valley combines a great deal of legend with historical data. The building, constructed by Jose Manuel Boronda on his 7,000 acre Rancho de los Laureles, is believed to have been erected in 1832. However, there are reports of one room of the house having been built in the late 1790's as a home for the Mission Indian family who cared for the mission livestock grazing at the rancheria.

Jose Manuel Boronda, the son of Don Manuel Boronda, first school teacher in California, married Juana Cota from Santa Barbara and moved to his land grant in the Valley. (Monterey's Boronda Adobe was the home of Jose's father.)

At this time the land was much more heavily wooded and Carmel River was a wide river whose banks came very close to the site which Jose Boronda chose for his home. Today the river is quite a distance from the house.

In addition to raising a family of fifteen children and helping her husband tend the beautiful farm, Senora Boronda developed a cheese that became so popular that she produced it for sale. This is the still famous Monterey Jack, which is said to have gotten its name from a person named Jack, from Jamesburg, who transported it to merchants in Monterey.

Legend associates the names of two famous bandits of the day with the Boronda Adobe. Joaquin Murieta supposedly used the place as a hide-out on several occasions. He spent considerable time in the area as is evidenced by a painting of Murieta done by a Mission

The bulldozer cuts its path

The movie "Bulldozed America," which was shown at last Wednesday's CVPOA meeting is something that should be required viewing for every man, woman and child in the United States. Even more specifically each builder or developer should take the thirty minutes to watch this Sierra Club sponsored movie each time he prepares for construction or work on a subdivision map.

City Councils and planning commissions should watch it as a "refresher course" before granting permits for industry or non-conforming uses which desecrate or pollute the air, land or water.

Unfortunately most of the thirty or so persons who did see the film were already well established on the side of conservation, so that we doubt any new converts were made. However, even those, who were well aware of how "The Bulldozer" is ruining what is left of our wilderness and wooded areas were left speechless at the conclusion of the documentary.

Complete destruction of California Redwood forests, lumbering in the foothills of the beautiful Washington Cascade wilderness, strip mining slashing great gaping sores in the Appalachians, bulldozers flattening pads in the Santa Monica mountains for house upon house, San Francisco bay being filled with wrecked cars and scrap iron, and the wind-swept Indiana dunes being leveled for industrial sites passed as a horrible commentary on our times.

And everywhere from housing developments, to freeways, to logging roads, it is the bulldozer that strikes down whatever is in its path.

Instigation of a "bulldozer ordinance" requiring a special approval whenever land is cleared, and/or a "tree policy" similar to Carmel's where permission must be granted before any tree may be cut, were suggestions growing out of the film.

High-handed tactics? Perhaps... but with so little unspoiled land left for our and future generations to enjoy, some kind of drastic measure must be taken. If not, we will all be living in great paved parking lots with freeways connecting them.

Chamber invited to merchants meeting Friday

Affiliation of the new Village Merchants Committee with Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce was discussed at the Chamber directors' meeting Thursday noon at Rancho del Monte Country Club.

Clark Swan, acting chairman of the Village Committee, urged all possible to turn out for the group's meeting this Friday at 7:30 at the Community Center.

He agreed with Dr. Ed Marcucci that the Village Committee should be a part of the chamber, although serving the needs of the Village exclusively. The Village group is discussing ways to achieve this, Swan added.

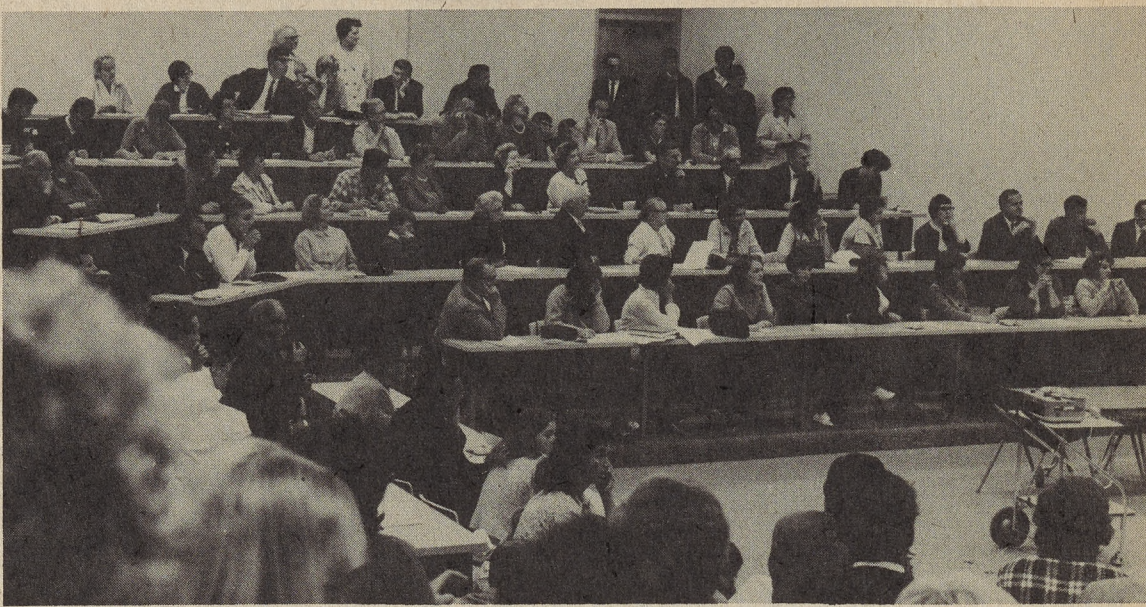

"We are generating ideas daily," Swan declared. "There's no limit to what you can do when people pool ideas and resources and pull together. It's a Committee of action." The group staged the recent successful Easter promotion.

Mrs. Vern Jewett reported plans for a float, which will be put together by the CV Youth Organization, and to include a local queen, for participation in the Salinas rodeo parade in July.

An art festival in the Village is also being scheduled for August, she said.

Mrs. Maury Nessel asked that day for the CUSD board meeting on the cutting of the budget. Over 250 persons turned out for a meeting that was broken by intermittent audience reactions ranging from applause to extreme disapproval.

CUSD board's action to slash budget continued tonight at study session

The CUSD school board played to a full house last week. Parents, teachers, students and other interested persons packed Brey Hall of Carmel High School to hear what was going to be lopped off the budget for next year in order to make up the $127,000 deficit with which the district is faced.

The meeting began with a report from Harold Arnot, president of the Monterey Taxpayers' Association. Arnot stated that the Taxpayers were interested in three phases: the operating budget, the cash reserve and plans for improving the quality of education.

1) He would like to see the district broken down into individual school building units with a separate accounting for each in order to pinpoint areas of waste.

2) If a cash reserve is needed, it should be clearly stated what it is for and it should be limited only to the needs of the current fiscal year.

3) All plans for improvements in the education plans should be geared to the funds available rather than having the funds geared to the plans.

In presenting a plan for private subsidy of the schools Arnot stated he would like to see a change in the trend for regimentation in schools with control increased at the local level. The plan for a non-profit educational fund which would be supported by parents to supplement the budget would be administered by a board chosen by the members of the group. Families would donate $50-$60 per year as a tax-deductible contribution.

In this way property owners who have no children in the school system would not be unfairly taxed, according to Arnot. Persons on the citizens committee who would administer the fund would be nominated by letter, Arnot added.

The board then continued to the matter of cuts in the budget.

TRANSPORTATION CUT

On a motion by Stephen Sassoon, seconded by Mrs. Blanks, they decided to prepare a change in board policy which would eliminate school bus transportation within an area of five miles. This would result in a gross saving of $45,900 per year to the district.

They also will investigate the possibility of selling the buses to a private transportation system which would charge students a set fee for bus travel to schools.

The board voted not to purchase another bus for the district which would cut $9,000 from the budget.

$3,000 was cut in the custodial account, eliminating vacation replacement employees.

Cutting $10,000 in the maintenance budget at the high school was postponed for decision until tonight's study session. The money is allocated for replacement of heating and water pipes and it was felt that it might constitute false economy to eliminate it from the budget.

The plan presented calls for eliminating one administrator and one elementary level librarian for a saving of $20,000.

ATHLETIC PROGRAM STUDIED

The meeting was climaxed by a one and a half hour discussion on the athletic program.

Board member Bialek felt that athletics were much less important than academic subjects and the program should be educational in scope. Mrs. Blanks felt that they should eliminate some athletics but not all and Neill felt it should be cut in direct proportion to the rest of the budget cuts.

There were many comments from the audience. Coach Bob Walthour felt that athletics is education. "It teaches boys to live in a way they can't learn from books," he said.

MRS. HERBERT BLANKS

...don't eliminate all athletics

In response to a remark that the athletics program was the heart of the school, Lloyd Miller said there are many parts to the heart and athletics are not the only heart.

Tor Spindler, speaking in defense of retaining the athletic program stated, "It is a matter of value judgement. You have yours and I have mine."

Donald Craige, a teacher for 30 years and a coach for 25, said that boys in sports get into less trouble.

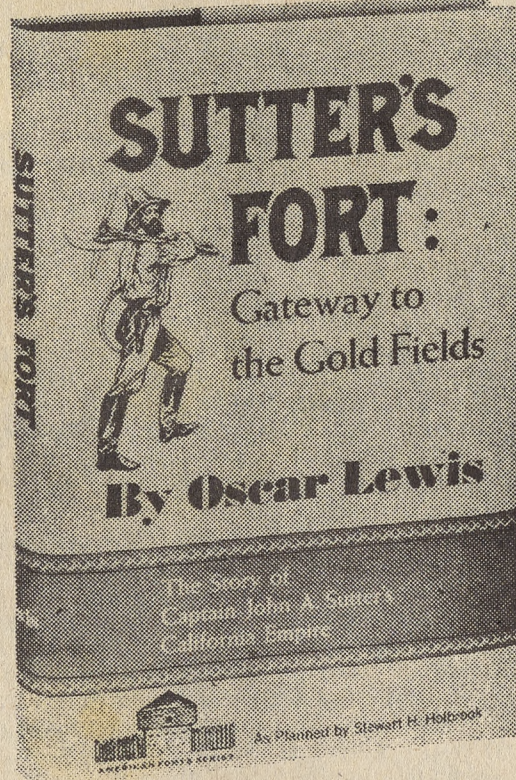

Speaking further he said, "Without sports you have a lopsided boy. You have a compre-

PG&E meets with CV groups to discuss gas line to Village

Natural Gas may be available to Valley residents by next Spring, if the expected construction of Rancho Fiesta Retirement Community is begun as scheduled.

At a joint meeting held last week with representatives of PG&E, CVPOA, Commercial Property Owners Association and the CV Chamber of Commerce, the long dream of having natural gas and the subsequent lower cost of utilities seemed closer than it has ever been.

Even if the retirement development does not go ahead as planned, the natural gas question will not be dead, because through surveys PG&E will determine the feasibility of extending the lines to the Village, airstrip area and Robles del Rio anyhow. In this case, however, the Public Utilities Commission will be asked to grant a special surcharge rate which would run about 50% higher than Peninsula rates but would still be about 20% less than rates for bottled gas.

A preliminary map was shown with possible line locations. Gas lines would follow the main roads with property owners on side roads possibly having to pay for service to their properties off the main line. Subscribers would also have to pay the $1.80 per foot for the installation from the street to the house in all probability. However, a planned footage credit system would give a customer so many free feet of line for each gas appliance to be used in the home.

A more comprehensive report will be made to the Valley organizations in about two months, according to the new district manager, Tom Riddle. This will be based on surveys currently under way to determine potential users of gas.

Since so much of the feasibility of extending the line beyond its present termination at Carmel Valley Manor depends upon the Rancho Fiesta Construction, reports were given showing that PG&E has already received their working plans and specifications for some 220 units. Clayton Neill Jr. reported that FHA approval for the financing had been granted and contracts were to be put out to bid this week.

The five representatives from PG&E present at the joint meeting were Tom Riddle, the district manager, James Baxter, the coast division representative from Salinas, Norman Brown of San Francisco, supervisor of land sales and leasing, E. E. Domeney, also of San Francisco, senior sales and lease agent, and C.A. Hicks, Carmel manager.

Louis Gardner, Clayton Neill Jr., Rex Pryer, Morden Buck, Paul Porter, Skip Marquard, and Tom Heffling represented the various Valley organizations.

Homemaking and business make a busy life for Valley market owner, Joan Bennett

(This is the first of a weekly series of brief stories on local business people.)

Which should come first on her full time-schedule—her children or her business?

This was the dilemma facing Mrs. Joan Bennett of Carmel Valley Market about a year ago when husband Art died suddenly from a heart attack.

Their two daughters are not very old and were used to their mother looking after their needs at home. Students at Tularcitos School, Victoria is 12 and Sally 10.

"I had been a housewife," Mrs. Bennett said. "Art had always run the business."

At first, Mrs. Bennett met her new responsibilities by devoting nearly full-time to the market. She bravely plunged in to become a self-made expert on the complexities of the market and liquor store.

Her mother, Mrs. Ethel Rexford, came to live with her to help with the children. "Mother and I had always been very close and had gotten along perfectly."

But living in the same house turned out not to be ideal, and, with complete understanding between them, Mrs. Rexford moved back to her own home in Carmel.

"I finally decided that the children really needed me," Mrs. Bennett said. "So now I don't spend much time at the store any more."

She explained that this is only possible because of her "wonderful staff." Her appreciation is most enthusiastic for the ability and responsibility of her staff at Carmel Valley Market. "They're just great. They work together beautifully and they know customers by name. Most have been with the store for years."

Manager George Willis, a veteran of eight years with the market, is credited by Mrs. Bennett for much of its smooth and successful operation.

She's equally full of praise for the other staff members: Terrie Tod, with the market seven years; Fran Jackson, who left for Texas for a while but "couldn't wait to get back to the Valley;" Velma Nassie, Lou Hockberger and Dottie and George Duckworth. The meat department is in the hands of Bob Getz, who leases it.

She and Art met in Carmel where her mother's summer home was across the street near the Mission from Art's summer house. He had been in the grape growing business near Lodi for most of his life.

Joan had been raised in Southern California in Hollywood when it was still an orange-orchard paradise. In the "small world" department, Mrs. Bennett attended school there with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Smith of the Thunderbird Shop before they were married.

She had been living in San Francisco when she met Art Bennett in Carmel. He had left Lodi, and, without any prior experience, purchased a grocery business in Pacific Grove in 1950.

"Art was the kind who would do well in anything he tackled," Mrs. Bennett commented. They bought a home in Carmel Valley near Farm Center, and opened the Carmel Valley Market in 1959. He sold the Pacific Grove store then to his sister, Helen Davie who had been assisting in the market.

Mrs. Bennett is a business woman and mother who has met her difficult problems with success.

The Sheriff's Blotter

By REX PRYER

APR. 8—Two 16 year old juveniles were taken in custody by the owner of Palo Corona. One was from Carmel, the other from Rancho Rio Vista. They told the deputy they had left the road in Carmel Highlands on their hondas and didn't realize they were on the ranch. When apprehended they had a 45 automatic, two rifles and a fishing pole. They had tried fishing in a small creek and had the firearms for target practice only, they stated. They were cited to juvenile authorities for trespassing and illegal fishing.

APR. 8—A resident of Monterey reported that two runaway juveniles were living in a cabin she owned in Hitchcock Canyon. Deputy went to cabin and found clothing belonging to someone else, but no one was there. He returned and the clothing was gone but he still couldn't find anyone.

APR. 8—A young man from Monterey was injured in a hunting accident. He and a friend were hunting ground squirrels in Carmel Valley area. A bullet ricocheted and entered the front of the boy's stomach, but did not penetrate the abdominal cavity. It lodged near the backbone. A doctor removed the bullet and there was no citation, because the bullet had ricocheted.

APR. 10—A deputy on patrol at 2 a.m. at rear of Carmel High School found a 19 year old crawling about, dressed entirely in black. He stated he was not up to anything but trying to make a decision about something that had happened at a friend's house. Deputy took information and filled out a report.

APR. 16—A resident of Rancho Fiesta reported that sometime during past two days his one room cabin was entered and $15 worth of clothing taken. Entry was made by breaking the lock on the front door.

HORSEMEN FLOCK TO "RIDE IN" AT FARM CENTER

Horses and riders converged on Farm Center for the "Ride-In" last Saturday from all directions. Sheriff Jack Davenport led the parade of about 50 riders through Berwick Manor, with Assistant Parade Marshalls, Allen Jacks, Tex Tabor and Frank DeAmaral backing him up.

After ribbon cutting ceremonies, performed on horseback, prizes were presented.

A dinner for the entire family was presented to the Max Drewiens as the Best Family Parade Group by Jack Currier, owner of Rocky Point Restaurant. The youngest rider, Stuart Wolf, was dwarfed by towering Jack Davenport, who presented him with Grand Champion Horse Groomer from the Hayloft.

Cowboy hats were given by Farm Center Store to Shannon and Candy Gregory who were judged the best dressed parade riders.

The senior "Old-Timer" in the parade, Allen Jacks, received a cowboy hat from Chuck and Nancy Strathmeyer.

Will Fay gave John Holmes a dinner at Will's Fargo in appreciation of his work as Trail Ride organizer, and Mrs. Gene Fairchild received a dinner at Club XIX, Pebble Beach for her organization of the Parade Ride.

Two tickets to White Oaks Theatre were Jan and Ted Roberts, reward for volunteering as judges, and bottles of champagne were Farm Center's gift to the volunteer hostesses who helped at the punch tables.

These were Virginia Neth, Marilyn Sanders, Jill Lee, Alice Hamm and "Bobby" Hancopol.

Pat and Pauline Herman said that the "life of the party" music by Jim Trivette and the Morticians contributed greatly to the fun of the day.

Farm Center neighbors St. Dunstan's Church, John Simpson, Del Monte Properties, and Mrs. Roxbury and Mrs. Knapp offered parking space on their properties.

After the ribbon cutting, the horseback riders, including Sheriff Davenport, took off on a trail ride through Rancho Tierra Grande. Several parents who stayed to pick up children taking the ride, commented that waiting was "thirsty business" as they returned to the punch bowl.

Conservation district adds 14,495 acres

As a result of an election held on April 5, 1966, 14,495 acres covering an area extending along the coast from the Carmel River to Bixby Landing was included in the Carmel Valley Soil Conservation District.

This, the 5th addition to the District since it was organized, brings the total acreage in the District to over 280,000 acres.

Bob Wilson, of Rancho Chupinos, president of the District Board, says the inclusion will make it possible to extend technical assistance on soil and water conservation problems to all landowners within the area.

CV's Arthur Oswald will help plan jr. college in Hawaii

Arthur Oswald, chairman of MPC's department of social sciences and president of the Academic Senate, has been granted a year's leave of absence to spend as dean of instruction at the new Honolulu Community College on the island of Oahu. Oswald, who lives in the Valley on Ford Road will be working with architects in planning the college plant which has not yet been constructed.

He will also develop curricula and work with the hiring staff for the college which is one of three new junior colleges planned on the island.

He has proposed some new approaches in coordinating a technical - vocational program with a liberal arts program. Oswald said that he also plans to teach, which he requested in order to keep in touch with the students.

Having long been interested

in the establishment of a junior college program in the islands, he is particularly pleased with the assignment. Oswald, an instructor in anthropology, has visited Hawaii during the past two summers for doctoral work at University of Hawaii's East-West Center.

Now— U. S. Savings Bonds Pay More Interest

4.15% when held to maturity

Higher interest on the Bonds you already own, too!

U.S. Savings Bonds are a better way to save than ever

Because now all Series E and Series H Bonds bought after December 1, 1965, will earn the new, higher interest rate of 4.15% when held to maturity. That's only 7 years for Series E—9 months quicker than before. All H Bond interest checks will be larger beginning in June 1966.

And your outstanding Bonds will earn more, too, from now on. So, you don't have to cash in your present Bonds to get the attractive new rate.

Ask about buying Bonds where you work or bank. For America's future. And yours.

"Today, none of us can remain aloof on the sidelines."

"Today, above all, is a time for all Americans to rededicate themselves to the spirit that animated the Minutemen of Concord—who serve as a symbol of the Savings Bond program. For today, as at the founding of our nation, it is freedom which is again at stake. Not all of us are called upon to fight in the jungles of Vietnam, but while our men are there, in the front line of a distant land, none of us can remain aloof on the sidelines. We must all do our share—in every way we can—to support our men in Vietnam. One sure way is open to all Americans through the Savings Bond program."

Outlook on Carmel

April 20, 1966

IN A "SOUND OF MUSIC" mood, members of the MPC service clubs, Sinawik for girls, and Circle K for boys, are getting ready to help with the Pops

Concert on April 24. They will set up the Agricultural Hall at the Fairgrounds for the 2 p.m. concert. (left to right) Eileen Harano, Farah Ebrahimi, Bar-

Temianka will appear in concert at Sunset

After an interval of years, the world famous performer and conductor, Henri Temianka, will return to Carmel's Sunset Auditorium, Saturday evening, April 23, for a Brahms and Mendelssohn concert.

Directing an octette composed of leading musicians, drawn from the membership of the California Chamber Symphony, Temianka will present a program which will principally feature two long works by Brahms and Mendelssohn. The compositions are Brahms' Sextet, Opus 18, and the Mendelssohn Octet, Opus 20.

Distinguished members of the Temianka Octette, in addition to Temianka himself, are: Meyer Bello, viola; Douglas Davis, cello; Bonnie Douglas, violin; Myra Kestenbaum, viola; Bernard Kundell, violin; Harold Schneider, cello; and Paul Shure, violin.

Temianka is founder-director of the already widely known California Chamber Symphony, which has made three extensive concert tours of the United States and Canada since its formation in 1960. Some years ago he appeared in Carmel as leader of the celebrated Paganini Quartet.

Temianka's octette is appearing under the auspices of the Carmel Arts Commission, which is presenting the concert in cooperation with the California Arts Commission.

Purpose of the Carmel Arts Commission, as a municipal body of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, and of the California Arts Commission, as an organ of the State of California, is to bring local audiences the opportunity to hear great music, greatly performed, by great artists such as members of the distinguished Temianka group. Consequently since the city as such, and the state as such, are underwriting much of the cost, tickets for the Temianka concert are modestly priced. General admission tickets are priced at $1.50, student tickets at $1 and seats will not be on a reserved basis. Tickets may be purchased at the following locations: The Music Box, Pacific Grove; Abinante's Music Store, Monterey; Harnish Music Store and Central Box Office, Carmel.

The Rhyming Philosopher

The cowboy sat slumped by the empty corral
With a far-away look in his eye;
The horse by his side was his only old pal,
For the rest of the gang said, "Goodbye."

From nine in the morning 'til sharp four o'clock
All the ranch hands had worked with a will;
Then they rattled right off from the range and the stock
To the country club way down the hill.

The union got them the thirty-hour week—
Each Friday they're off in a trice
For a week-end of pleasure and golf down the creek,
Intercepted with poker and dice.

The cowboy still rides all alone on the range,
And works 'til he's blue in the face.
The reason they left him behind isn't strange—
He's the sucker who owns the darn place.

Annual Pops Concert at fairgrounds on Sunday

A day for the whole family is promised for next Sunday at the Monterey County Fairgrounds.

The annual Pops Concert, sponsored by the Monterey County Symphony Guild, will be presented by members of the Monterey County Symphony under the baton of John Gosling.

As an extra special added attraction, the Russian Student Choir from the Defense Language Institute will appear.

Even the theme of this year's concert is a family affair. It is to be excerpts from "The Sound of Music," which salutes the talented international family of singers, the von Trapps. Mr. Gosling has also promised a little foot-tapping and clapping cadence with selections from John Phillip Sousa.

The lawns at the fairgrounds are looking green and lush and speakers have been installed throughout the grounds so that families can bring their picnic baskets, relax and listen to the music in a setting comparable to Massachusetts' famed Tanglewood. Food and beverages will also be sold at conveniently located stands.

All proceeds from the Pops Concert go to support the Monterey County Symphony and Youth Orchestra.

If persons are unable to attend but wish to contribute, a check may be mailed to the Guild ticket chairman, Mrs. Walter Jennings, Rt. 3, Box 675, Carmel. She will see that tickets will be given to visiting foreign students and teachers.

Gates to the fairgrounds will open at 12 noon and the concert starts at 2 p.m. sharp in and around the Agricultural Building. Tickets are now on sale in Carmel at California Music

House and Harnish Music Company, at Ellen Waters in Carmel Valley, in Monterey at Abinante's and ABC Music Center, in Pacific Grove at Holman's and Don Grafton's Radio and TV, in Salinas at Gadsby's Music Company and at Berg's in Seaside.

Admission is $1 for adults, 50¢ for youths 6-12 years and children under six are free.

Under the Oaks and Among the Cacti

Frequent letters to Switzerland with enclosed photographs help to keep the grandparents and all the families of Mr. and Mrs. Ernst J. Weilenman of Los Arboles in touch with their handsome American family. The most recent communiques to Switzerland carried news of the arrival of Ernst Jr. who was born at the Community Hospital February 11. The little boy who weighed 8 lbs. 15 oz. has a brother, Bruno 6-1/2, and a sister, Doris who is 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cummings with children, Mary, Kim, Frankie and Larry Jr. accompanied Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. Hal Averyt and children, Tina and Randy, to Oregon during Spring vacation to visit the ranch which the Averyts own near Grants Pass. The Valleyites enjoyed exploring the southern part of the "Webfoot State" although a good portion of their travels was made through the Oregon "mist."

Flowers and candles centered the tea table at the Mother's Tea given last week at the Community Center by the group of Camp Fire Girls led by Mrs. Arthur Harber and Mrs. William Parham. Achievement beads earned by the girls during the year were presented. Regina Howland was awarded the highest number of beads. Among those attending were Mrs. John Glenn Hendrix and Terry, Mrs.

Eugene Baker and Kim, Mrs. Keith White and Robin, Mrs. Jack Rauber and Enid, Mrs. Raymond Keane and Jana, Mrs. Frank Sclawy and Regina, Sandy Harber and numerous little brothers and sisters.

Three very thrilled boys had a chance Village meeting with and autographs from a long admired hero of football fame. Y.A. Tittle who was a guest with his family at John Gardiner's Tennis Ranch, presented the boys with autographs. The former National Football League Quarterback who now is assistant coach of the San Francisco Forty Niner's had arrived at the Monterey Marina last week on his new 42 foot cabin cruiser.

Frank, who owned a service station in Berkeley for twenty years, was born in Central Falls, Rhode Island. Incorporated with the motel is a second business venture, "The Old Coin Shop," operated by Frank, who buys and sells to the individuals interested in this popular hobby. A number of long time friends have visited the Papineau's new home recently. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. A. Kruger of El Cerrito and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Rubenstein of Berkeley. Mr. Rubenstein had recently retired from 42 years of service with the postal department.

An appeal was received from the Carmel-by-the-Sea chapter of the American Red Cross for "Ditty bags." The little denim bags are to be filled with necessities for sick and wounded servicemen in hospitals and on board hospital ships. Mrs. H.J. Danelz, chairman of the project, insists that they are simple to make. Anyone having time to assist with these comfort kits is asked to phone her at 624-6001.

The monthly Masterpoint Tournament of the Carmel Valley Duplicate Bridge Club was held last Tuesday evening at the Community Center. Winners of the North-South were: 1st place, Mrs. Irene Baldwin and Franz Roalkvam; 2nd place, Mrs. Mary Drobek and Mrs. Mary Angier. Winners of East-West were: 1st place, Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Van Laanen and 2nd place, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gravelle.

Mrs. Frank Papineau spent last week in Los Angeles with family and friends. Carrie and Frank, former residents of El Cerrito, are the new owners of the Adobe Oaks Motel. Carrie, Firemen Don Corona and Don Weber represented the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department at the all-day Bomb and Explosion Course held last week at St. Xavier Hall in Seaside under the sponsorship of Fort Ord.

"Tiny Tim" is the nick-name that family and friends have given the newest arrival at the Robles del Rio home of Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. Gerald K. (Joe) Roland. Timothy Patrick Roland weighed 6 lbs. 1 oz. when he checked into the Fort Ord Hospital on April 2. Waiting at home on Cummings Drive to welcome Nancy and Tiny Tim were the other two Roland sons, Mike and Sean. Nancy's mother, Mrs. Margaret Corbett, arrived from Solana Beach to lend assistance and will be leaving this week to visit another daughter in the East.

The Joseph E. Murphy household on El Cammito and Ford Road was a busy place Easter week when the Murphy son, Barry, arrived home with a group of friends from Foothill College. Their daughter, (Cont. on Page 13)

Service clubs initiate drive for Laotians

A drive began last Friday to collect toys and children's clothing for the people of Laos. Under the sponsorship of the Monterey Kiwanis Club, Rotary, J.C.'s and the Marina VFW, the drive will continue for two months. The Carmel Valley Fire House is serving as a collection point where things will be picked up each week by aides from the Naval Air Facility who will help pack the donations and if cleared by the powers that be, will also transport them. The idea stemmed from a recent visit from an official of the Agency for International Development, a function of the State Department, who brought personal greetings from a Laotian friend to Lt. Cmdr. Charles Klusman of La Rancheria. Cmdr. Klusman spent a good deal of time on duty in Laos and owes his life to this friend. The Agency official mentioned the need for children's things. Cmdr. Klusman passed the word along to the various service organizations and the drive began. Anyone wishing to participate may check the following list: warm clothing (clean and in good condition) needles, thread, soap, tooth paste, crayons, tablets, canned milk, baby bottles, balloons, and small toys. Edgar "Pop" Buell, who recently was the subject of a 20th Century Feature Film on television, is the representative living among the Laotian people who will see that donations are distributed where they are most needed.

Fire Dept. called to Dibbern home

The Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department was called to Country Club Drive where a transformer on a pole near the Owen Dibbern home had caught fire. No damage resulted from the fire of undetermined origin and firemen notified PG&E. The call was received April 10 at 8:35 p.m.

Walking shoes are in order for History & Art Assn. Adobe House Tour

The Adobe House Tour, sponsored by the Monterey History and Art Association, will be held on Saturday, April 30, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Twelve adobes will featured in this year's tour with morning coffee and afternoon tea served at the Casa Serrano, the Association's headquarters on Pacific Street.

Casa Serrano was partially built when it was purchased in 1845 by Florencio Serrano. After he and Senorita de la Torre were married, they lived there, and raised a large family, and Senor Florencio established a school in the building.

Casa Alvarado was built in the early 1830's by Don Juan Bautista Alvarado, the first Monterey born Governor of California. Each room opens directly to the out-of-doors and the house faces the east to take advantage of the early morning sun. Alvarado was a champion of public education in Monterey.

Stevenson House is so named from the fact that Robert Louis Stevenson made it his home for several months in 1879. The house was originally used as a warehouse by Dona Rafael Gonzales and its assessed value in 1851 was $150. For many years it was operated as the French Hotel.

Larkin House is 134 years old and was used as home and U.S. Consulate by Thomas Larkin from 1844 until 1848. It was the scene of many a fine ball and was a famous social center.

In 1841 the municipality of Monterey granted a lot to Joaquin Gutierrez. He and his wife, Josefa, built an adobe typical of those of the average citizens of Monterey during the Mexican period.

House of the Four Winds was built about 1830 and was the only building in early Monterey to have a weather vane. It was built by Larkin and used as a residence until Governor Alvarado turned it into a store.

Casa Amesti on Polk Street is one of the best examples of Monterey Colonial architecture. It was built in 1825 by Jose Amesti, a Spanish Basque, who came to Monterey on the "Panther" when he was 30 years old. Prior to building the home he married Prudenciana Vallejo.

Casa Sobranes was built by Don Jose Estrada, ranking officer of the Presidio under the Mexican regime. He sold it to Don Feliciano Soberanes who married one of the daughters of Don Ignacio Vallejo.

Casa Abrego is one of the oldest landmarks in Monterey. It is built of adobe and wood from the ship "La Natalie" which was wrecked in a storm in Monterey harbour. It was the home of Don Jose Abrego, a Spanish merchant.

The Old Whaling Station has a narrow overhanging balcony and lovely garden hidden behind a high chalk rock wall. It was built as a boarding house for Portuguese whalers in the late 1850's.

The one story First Federal Court Building was the home of Don Jose Joaquin de la

AMANDA, played by Karen Kondan (left), hovers over Laura, her daughter, portrayed by Sandra Lundwall, in "The Glass Menagerie" currently at White Oaks Theatre, The Tennessee Williams play can be seen at 8:30 on Friday and Saturday nights through May 14.

All star cast in Circle's 'Madwoman of Chaillot'

"The Madwoman of Chaillot" opens Friday night at the Circle Theatre with an all-star cast.

Marcia Hovick will be seen in the part of the eccentric "Madwoman," Contess Aurelia, who lives physically in a Paris cellar and mentally in the graciousness of the past.

Living happily in the memories of a cozy era, she does not realize that the world has changed for the worse until her friends, waiters, ragmen and peddlers, tell her so. With the help of her friends she contrives to "dispose" of all the evil people in her district with grace and humor.

Mason Wright will be seen as the Ragpicker, typical of the Madwoman's friends.

Three of her madcronies will be played by Ruth Marion McElroy, Betty Fowlston, and Gertrude Chappell.

Clancy Van Horn will play one of the predatory leeches who gets his come-uppance at the hands of Countess Aurelia.

Marcia Rider and Beau Stark will be seen in the romantic tale of waitress and a young man in love.

FLAVOR OF OLD MONT A MOMENT IN ANNUA

Like New Yorkers who have never seen the Empire State Building, we become so used to the old adobes of the Monterey Peninsula that forget to notice them. Many of them are "lost" among commercial buildings and a number are still private homes.

Tourists follow the red-lined "Path of History" and become more familiar with our story than we.

Each year the Monterey History and Arts Association sponsors an Adobe House Tour. This year's tour will be on April 30 and will include twelve of the old buildings. (A story on those featured in the tour appears on the Leisure Times page.)

Like Carmel Valley's Boronda Adobe, many of these buildings are never open to the public, while others are available for viewing only during the tour.

Newcomers and oldtimers would find it most interesting to pursue the trail of our Spanish and Mexican heritage. It is exciting and colorful and brings the past of our Peninsula into the present.

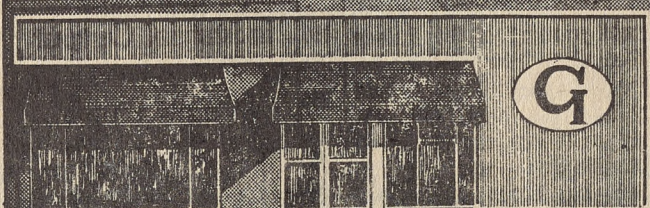

TOP RIGHT—Casa Serrano on Pacific Street has become the headquarters of the History and Art Association. Florencio Serrano established a school here in his home and brought education to Monterey.

ABOVE LEFT—The wrought iron lantern at the entrance to the House of the Four Winds on Calle Principal still beckons visitors to the many functions held there. Its name stemmed from the weather vane perched on the roof. Although originally a private residence it became the first Hall of Records in the state of California.

BELOW LEFT—Larkin House built by Thomas Larkin, the only U.S. Consul to California, is typical of the wooden and adobe construction which has become famous as Monterey architecture. All three of these will be on the Adobe House Tour.

CASA BONIFACIO, "The House of the Sherman Rose," (below and right) is the only adobe in history which has been moved. Formerly on Alvarado Street it was transferred, brick by brick to the Mesa in the 1920's. Its history is one that glows with storybook romance.

When William Sherman was stationed in Monterey as a lieutenant with the American forces in 1846, he fell in love with Senorita Ignacia Maria Bonifacio. At this time Sherman lived next to Larkin House.

He was called back to Washington on a special mission. He and the Senorita planted a "Cloth of Gold" rosebush in her garden before he left.

He pledged his love and said, "Before the first rose blooms I shall return and marry you." The rose bush grew and bloomed but he never came back. Through friends she learned that he had married his second cousin in the East.

Senorita Ignacia never married but remained true to her one love. When she died in the early 1900's a packet of letters from Sherman were buried with her.

When Casa Bonifacio was moved, the Sherman Rose was also moved and still grows in the garden.

This year Casa Bonifacio will not be on the House Tour, but its lovely back garden is shown below. The wrought iron bell announces visitors at the gracious front door (top right).

Fruit trees blossom in the backyard of Stevenson House (below right). This was a working garden with flowers and food bearing plants complementing each other. Stevenson House will be featured on the Adobe House Tour and its story is told on the Leisure Times page.

Hang on to Your Hat!

Let's start with the headband

By ELSIE WALTERS

Beginning this week, the Outlook will start a new feature, "Hang on to your Hat," by Elsie Walters. Mrs. Walters, for many years a professional designer of hats, taught classes in millinery at the Navy Postgraduate School for eight years. At the request of many of her students she compiled tips on altering, trimming and re-trimming hats in a paper back book, entitled "Hang on to your Hat."

Excerpts from this book plus illustrations should give our readers helpful hints about how to go about fixing up their old hats or decorating some of the wonderful summer straw hats which are available.

Mrs. Walters book is available locally at the Thunderbird Shop.

Headband size is the finishing band inside the hat. It follows the line formed in the joining of the crown and brim, covering the rough edges. It prevents the head size from stretching and protects the hat. The head size ribbon must conform to the shape of the side wall of the crown (Illustration 1-D).

If the hat is uncomfortably tight, remove the headband ribbon (this band is always made of millinery belting ribbon, not to be confused with Grosgrain Ribbon), cut away any excess material which the ribbon covered, replace ribbon (Illustration 1-B) with pins and sew by hand, using stitches (Illustration 1-E).

If the hat is too large, taking tucks in the upper edge of the headband ribbon will sometimes solve the problem...or sew pieces of velvet ribbon over existing headband. Another way to make a hat smaller is to remove and replace headband, making headband taut while pinning back in place, (sew as per Illustration 1-E).

FIRST ENTRIES for the Beacon House Art Auction, which will be held Sunday, May 1, are examined by Dr. Donald Taugher (left), chairman of the auction coordinating committee, and Louis Cleary, the new Beacon House manager. Cleary is also director of the recently established Salinas Alcoholism Information Center. The Art Auction will be held in the Terrace Room of the Mark Thomas Inn.

Annual Beacon House benefit

Art auction promises to be more exciting than ever!

Beacon House, the Monterey Peninsula's rehabilitation center for alcoholics, will stage its seventh annual Art Auction on Sunday, May 1.

Dr. Donald Taugher, member of the Beacon House board of directors and coordinating chairman for the Art Auction, announced that the event will be held in the Terrace Room of the Mark Thomas Inn.

"With works being contributed by such distinguished Peninsula artists as Emile Norman, John Boit Morse, Elizabeth Maddux and Barbara West, we are confident we will have even more fine paintings and sculpture than last year," Dr. Taugher said.

Theil Hampton, president of the Beacon House board, is finance chairman. Other appointments include Marjorie Allen, technical consultant; Mrs. John Shephard, poster distribution; Ivar Sivertsen, promotion; Mrs.

Gordon Larson, hostess committee, and Rod Holmgren, publicity.

Paintings, which are already arriving at Beacon House, will be hung in the Terrace Room by the morning of Wednesday, April 27. Interested art patrons may preview them from April 27 through Sunday morning, May 1.

Those who cannot attend the auction may submit sealed bids on the works of their choice at the Mark Thomas desk.

Following the annual custom, brunch will be served at noon, May 1, and the auction will begin at 2 p.m.

This annual benefit is a major source of income for Beacon House. Reservations may be made by calling 624-2256 or writing P.O. Box 1058, Carmel. Tickets for the entire program, brunch included, are $3.50. Tickets to the auction only are $1.

Recipe for plain walls

By Belva Sanford. F.A.I.D.

The present vogue for "clutter" on walls is often confusing when you are trying to decide just what to put on a large, plain wall. It will be easier for you to think first of the space needing design. Relate the over all area to the furniture in front of it.

A sofa, tables and lamps will act as a frame needing a large scale arrangement. A secretary, bookcase, or other tall unit would act as part of the design. Place this off center, with a chair, table and lamp beside it, thus calling for an asymmetrical arrangement on the wall. It is most important to keep in mind that whatever you place on the wall should be hung low enough to be a part of the whole—not fly off into space.

What to use? A series of pictures is adequate, but by using a group of various sizes, or with mats of textured paper or fabric more interest is obtained. Or group pictures around a mirror. It is easier to balance if the largest item is used as the center of interest. Other items that may be decoratively used are sconces, electrified or with candles; a collection of plates, with interesting pattern or color; brackets or shelves to hold a collection of china, glass, or metal objects; or unusual carvings.

When creating a wall arrangement, don't mar the wall until you try them out on the floor first, to be sure that the overall effect is pleasing. Again the warning - to keep them close together so that they belong to each other as well as to the overall area.

For more personal places, such as bedrooms, hallways, or bathrooms, try a gay collection of your favorite Christmas cards, or a collage of your favorite photographs, menus, tickets and tags from an exciting trip, or other items representing your interests.

Perhaps the reason we enjoy a bit of clutter on the walls today is because of our use of so many plain surfaces on furniture, at windows, and on the floors. Accessories bring our special interests and collections into our backgrounds. Have fun with your individual personal wall arrangements since you can easily change them when you wish.

The Insurance Salesman, a life insurance industry magazine which annually selects one representative of each life insurance company chosen by his firm as its "outstanding man of the year," has named John D. Monroe of Rancho Tierra Grande to its current All-star Honor Roll.

Mr. and Mrs. John Radon are receiving many congratulations these days on the arrival of their first child, a daughter. Lisa Elena was born at the Community Hospital on April 5. Linda's mother, Mrs. Loren Pettersen is here from her home in Santa Barbara to get acquainted with her lovely granddaughter. Lisa's paternal grandmother is Mrs. Paula Meyer-Radon, also of Santa Barbara.

More plans for the Sixth Annual Carmel Valley Garden and Flower Show were formulated Tuesday night when the Association's Board of Directors met with the show chairman at the home of the club president, Mrs. Irving Ollason. A number of Valley gardens will be opened for visitors and a map of directions will be available in the exhibition hall at Tularcitos Multipurpose Room, on May 14. A wishing well will be displayed here, too, with proceeds used to defray expenses of the admission free show and to benefit the Outdoor Classroom at Tularcitos School. Attending were Mr. Lin Sims, show chairman, Ivan Makinster, Miss Dorothy Caton, Leo Stuckens, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Skadan, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Starr, Chris Schiesswohl, Mr. John Woofenden, Mrs. John Power, Mr. Salih Mehdy, Mrs. Mark Hattat, and Mr. and Mrs. Ollason.

The words, "We will now sing page 58" was a clue from Sherrie May, director of the Youth Choir, to sing "Happy Birthday" to their very surprised organist, Mrs. Sunzah Park, at choir practise last Wednesday evening at the Carmel Valley Community Chapel.

Members of the Auxiliary of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department were guests at the installation dinner held Wednesday evening at the Shutters Restaurant for new officers of the Auxiliary of the Monterey Fire Department. Mrs. Donald Corona of the Valley organization is District Central Deputy for the California State Fire Department Association and served as installing officer. White Oaks workshop

White Oaks Theatre's third Spring Workshop presentation is Jean Paul Sartre's existential drama "No Exit" being performed by members of the Training Center for the Performing Arts this Sunday night and next, April 24 and May 1 at 7:30.

"No Exit," under the direction of the theatre's actress and speech instructor Karen Kondan, features Michael S. Riordan, Karin Gjording, Sandra Lundwall, and Dave Wynne.

Miss Kondan has given full reign to the experimental allowances of the Workshop which, offered free to the public, is independent of commercial production problems. Sartre's originally shocking drama is being employed as "a theatre piece not only challenging to its director and actors, but to the audience as well."

Garden Thoughts

by Salih Mehdy

of The Oleander Garden Shop

We talk about the seven wonders of the world, but if we stop for a while and start to survey our surroundings we might come to the conclusion that a little seed is on the top of the list of wonders. It is a marvelous package. Some look small, dry, and insignificant. Inside lie dormant all the elements to produce a giant tree, which might reach great heights and live for many years,—or to produce a petunia plant. Inside the seed there are small microscopic particles called genes. These genes attach themselves to small bodies called chromosomes. A gene dictates, for instance, that the flower of a petunia will be single, ruffled, or double red. Another gene is in charge of the shape of the leaves; a third will cause the plant to cascade down or stand erect. These genes do their jobs methodically with seldom a deviation. And when they do deviate, it is said that a mutation took place. The color of the flower might change from solid red to red with white tips.

Mutation may come about by radiation (natural or artificial). Sometimes a branch or twig falls under this influence and produces fruit which is different from the rest on the mother tree. An observing person might spot such a different branch (clone), and if the fruits are of superior quality, he will try to increase the new variety by budding—taking buds from this clone and inserting them in an ordinary seedling.

The size of seeds varies from as large as a speck of dust, as in fibrous begonias (1,000,000 seeds to the ounce), to a very large one as in the double coconut, which weighs 50 lbs., and takes ten years to ripen. Some have so beautiful a color, shape, or texture, as to inspire any great artist.

The tiny embryo in a seed is formed as a result of the union between the nucleus of a pollen grain and another cell in the ovary of the flower. The union is the fertilized egg. This later develops into the embryo. The embryo is a miniature plant which will develop, under variable conditions, into a plant almost identical to the one which produced it. Such a plant could be the parents of the embryo, because its flowers produce the pollen grains (male cells) and also the eggs in the ovules. An example of this type is the apple tree. In other plants such as the date palm, there are male trees whose flowers produce only pollen, and female trees which produce only eggs in the ovules of the flowers. In this particular case, man helps the process of pollination by carrying pollen from the male tree to the female flowering tree. In other cases,

Columnist Harold Gilliam is next lecturer in Operation Update series

Harold Gilliam, author, columnist and conservationist, will be the second speaker in the current "Operation Update" series of lectures for women on "California at the Crossroads" at Monterey Peninsula College.

He will discuss "The Environmental Crisis" Thursday, April 21 at 10 a.m. in the MPC library lecture hall.

All women in the area are invited by the co-sponsors, MPC and the American Association of University Women, Monterey Peninsula Branch, to attend without charge. Coffee will be served by an AAUW hospitality committee at 11, after which a question-and-answer period will last until noon.

A member of the San Francisco Chronicle staff since 1948—"except for intervals of book writing and other purposes"—Mr. Gilliam writes a weekly column, "This Land," for the "This World" section of that newspaper. One of the "other purposes" was a year (1962-63) he spent as assistant to Secretary Udall in the U.S. Department of the Interior.

His published books include insects, wind, or water help to accomplish this pollinating. Rarely, seeds are produced without pollination. It does happen in citrus, and such seeds produce plants identical to their mother trees. They are, in a sense, like a cutting, which, when rooted, will resemble the tree from which it came.

These days it is easy to obtain seeds. You send to a seed company for a catalog, and in a few days receive it with a self-addressed envelope. It is fascinating to leaf through such a catalog—it bubbles with life. Then you send your money and get your seeds. Of course, you may buy seeds from display racks in local stores, also.

To obtain seeds so readily was not always the case in the past. A country or province could be very zealous in protecting certain seeds which they developed. The penalty of death was imposed on anyone trying to smuggle Upland rice from North Italy. Jefferson risked his life and was able to get some seeds for planting in South Carolina.

This reminds me of an Arabian farmer who tried to also get some rice seeds, from a province in India. The penalty for taking seeds out was very severe. But he did manage to get the seeds in this way. When he was approaching the inspection point, he scattered the seeds inside a cage where there was a hungry chicken. The hen ate them in no time. When he was on the other side, he had a chicken dinner and extracted the still viable seeds from the chicken's gizzard!

"San Francisco Bay," "The Face of San Francisco," "San Francisco, City at the Golden Gate" (with Ann Gilliam), "Island in Time—The Point Reyes Peninsula" and "Weather of the San Francisco Bay Region." To be published this year are two more books, "For Whom the Bay" and "The Natural World of San Francisco." He also wrote the Pacific Coast section of the American Heritage "Book of Natural Wonders."

Mothers of pre-school-age children who attend "Operation Update" may leave them in a nursery which will be set up in Room LL-2 (back of the library). Mrs. Don E. Harrison Jr., AAUW "Update" chairman, asks that the mothers bring their children's own marked play equipment.

Annual rabies clinic at CV fire station May 6

The annual reduced-fee rabies clinic will be held in Carmel Valley on Friday, May 6, at the Fire Station. Staffed by local veterinarians, the clinics are held yearly as public service, and are intended to help keep the cost of rabies immunization at a minimum, according to Health Department officers.

The law, which requires the vaccination and licensing of all dogs over 4 months of age, is designed to prevent the spread of rabies from wildlife to our families through their dogs, said Dr. D.L. Caswell, Public Health Veterinarian. Monterey County is a rabies area due to the frequent occurrences of rabies in skunks, foxes and bats. Five cases in skunks were found last year, well scattered throughout the county.

"There has been no known case of rabies in a dog or cat in this county since 1957," said Dr. Caswell, attesting to the effectiveness of vaccination.

For the convenience of dog owners, the clinics will also be staffed by city and county clerks so that the new 1966-67 dog licenses may be procured at the same time. The reduced-fee for rabies is $1.50, required every 2 years, and for the license, required yearly, the reduced-fee is $2.00.

Expansion as training center is White Oaks' aim

White Oaks Theatre and Training Center has set a goal of $60,000 in launching its first annual fund-raising drive.

A non-profit, educational and cultural institution, White Oaks Theatre is seeking financial support to continue and develop its year-round training and production activities.

Financial aid is vitally needed for this program which includes: The Resident Performing Company, made up of scholarship students from some twelve states in addition to California, who are seeking more intensive training and concentrated performance experience; Children's Theatre and its touring facility; the Workshop, Concert and Lecture Series, all of which are presented to the public free of charge; the Special Works commissions which are used to encourage new and original works; and guest directors and teachers who are invited to conduct master classes for the advanced students studying at White Oaks.

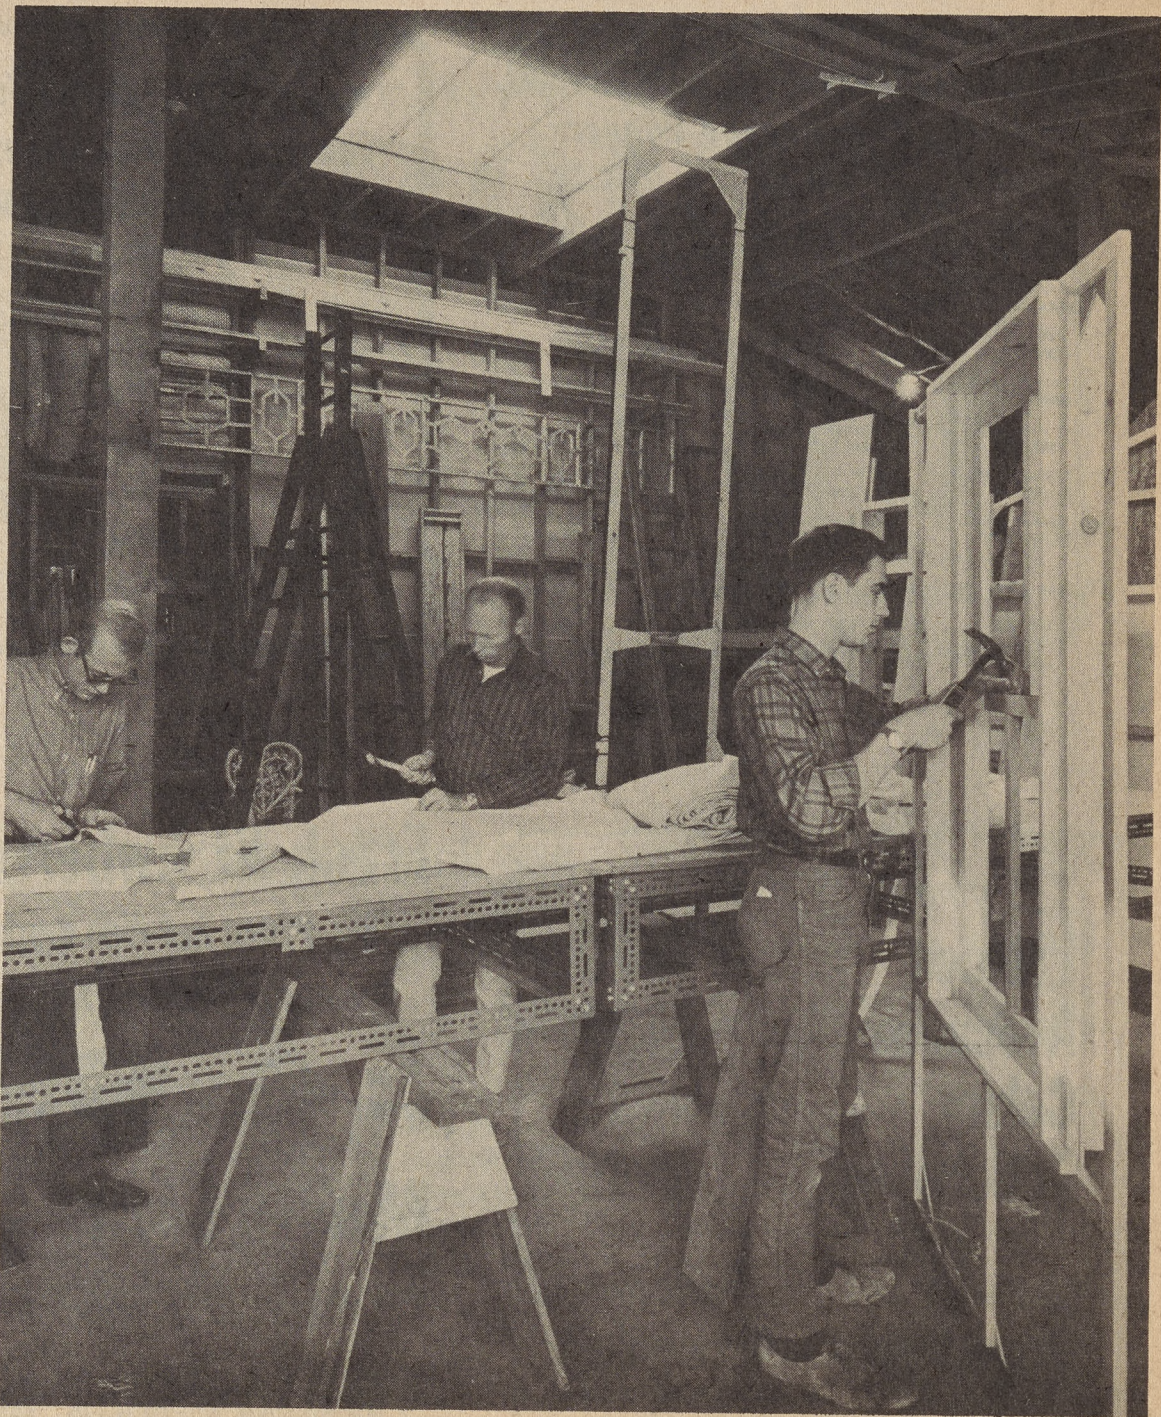

The White Oaks fund drive is being headed by Gina McCord, recently appointed Director of Development and member of the White Oaks Theatre board of directors. Assisting Mrs. McCord are fellow board members including: Mr. Jacob Abramson, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Mel Blevens, Sally Hughes Church, Barbara Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crispo, Mr. Will Fay, Mr. Ron Mitchell, Dr. William D. Pratt, Mr. F.D. Tellwright, and Mrs.

Lawrence Washburn. Also lending their aid are members of the Advisory Board which include: Irene Hughes Church, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. Thomsen J. Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kutschera, Mr. and Mrs. Mark C. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth S. Walker, Mr. Francis S. Mohan of Los Angeles, and Dr. and Mrs. Gregory Val-Goeschen of San Francisco.

Donations are being sought from individuals, business firms, social and civic organizations as well as from private state and federal foundations not only in Monterey County communities but throughout the state. Before federal foundations can be approached, local support must be assured.

Each donor may select the way in which his gift is to be used, whether it be for the scholarship program, which would provide an individual of his choice with a 12-month training program with room, board and all expenses covered for $3,000 or for further development in the areas previously mentioned. If desired, the donor may leave such decisions to the discretion of the board of directors and the executive staff of White Oaks Theatre.

As a non-profit institution, gifts to the theatre are its major source of income while box-office receipts provide slightly less than 50% of all revenue. Now in its eighth year of operation, gifts to the theatre have grown from $6,500 to $25,000.

GALE PETERSON, Dave Jenkinson and Richard Pattie work on a set at White Oaks Theatre.

Correspondingly, audiences have grown from 3,000 persons to approximately 9,000. While all statistics are encouraging, further substantial assistance is imperative.

Prior to the kick-off of the fund drive, gifts ranging in amounts from $25 to $5,000 totaling more than $9,000 have been contributed to the 1966 fund drive.

"With solid backing from the community, White Oaks Theatre will emerge a completely self-supporting institution within five years, according to expert and detailed financial study and projection," according to Mrs. McCord. "We are asking only that some portion, be included in each person's annual list of charitable contributions.

Roy Prendergast appears as soloist with symphony orchestra

Roy Martin Prendergast of Carmel Valley appeared yesterday as piano soloist in concert with the Spartanburg Symphony Orchestra under the baton of Henry Janiec at Converse College, Spartanburg, South Carolina.

He and four other Converse students were featured in the concert as winners of the annual concerto contest. The selection was made by members of the Converse School of Music faculty from graduate and undergraduate instrumental majors in a rigid competition.

Mr. Prendergast and the other performers will each play one movement of a concerto with the symphony. He has selected Liszt's "Totentanz."

A candidate for the Bachelor's of Music degree in the professional School of Music, Mr. Prendergast is the son of Mrs. S.L. Crawford, Carmel Valley.

He is a student of Mrs. Virginia McCall Gore, assistant professor of piano, at Converse.

First aid call

Gladys Hoskins, Scenic Drive, Carmel, was taken to the Community Hospital on the advice of a local physician. The first aid crew operating the American Red Cross Ambulance received the medical emergency at 9 p.m., April 10.

hensive school here, it is not a high academic school. You have to take everyone if they are able to walk in the door."

Final decision on the program was delayed.

The high school summer school program will be eliminated with students possibly taking courses at other high schools. This would save $7500. Bair recommended retaining the elementary program which is teacher training as well.

A savings of $42,000 will result from the shortening of the High School schedule. This was continued to tonight's meeting. Plans called for elimination of electives with attendance of less than 15, including such subjects as speech, journalism, Spanish 4 and 5, German and Latin 3 and 4, and all music except band. Six teachers could be saved in this manner.

A suggestion to combine Palo Colorado and River Schools was voted down unanimously. Bill Hazel of Carmel Highlands told the board that parents had pledged $1,000 which would be the saving involved. The possibility of combining Woods and River School was also discussed.

A study session will be held tonight at 7:30 on further cuts, including the recreation program.

New savings and loan to open at Carmel Rancho

May 1 is target date for official opening of newly-chartered First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Monterey County in an office being constructed in Carmel Rancho Shopping Center at the mouth of Carmel Valley.

DAVID B. LAING, president and general manager of newly-organized First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Monterey County, with its office at Carmel Rancho Shopping Center.

The new financial institution is temporarily housed in a house trailer at the Rancho Center.

President David Laing announced that the required capital accounts had been subscribed as of last Friday, qualifying for certificate of insurance by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp.

Maj. General James H. Phillips (USA ret.) was elected chairman of the board following the recent organization meeting at Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club.

Also elected were Ira Nagel, president of MBS Discount Dept. store, as vice president; William R. Moore, Carmel pharmacist, secretary; Dr. Robert E. Cater, orthodontist at the Rancho Center, secretary; other directors include Ralph L. Stean, general contractor; Adolph F. Edel, electrical contractor; and Thomas S. Elston, Jr., architect.

Assisting Laing, who is both president and general manager, are Charles Lunt, Jr., loan officer and appraiser, and Mrs. Rose Morrisseau, bookkeeper and secretary.

Laing moved here from Cupertino where he was vice president of Palo Alto Savings and Loan Association and manager of its office in Cupertino. He was a director and secretary of Cupertino Rotary Club and Cupertino Chamber of Commerce of which he also had served as secretary. President of the Cupertino-Monte Vista Improvement Association, he was 1965 chairman of Cupertino United Fund, a charter member of Cupertino Council of Fine Arts, Inc. and a member of Foothill College's business advisory board.

His alma maters include Berkshire School, Sheffield, Massachusetts; Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio; and the U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs.

Laing and his wife Maryann have two sons, Bruce, 5, and Danny, 2.

Laing pointed out that First Federal Savings and Loan Association is the only federal association which has been granted a charter by the federal government in Monterey County.

He explained that another difference is that First Federal is a mutual, owned by its savers and borrowers.

priest at a time when he sought refuge there. He and "three-fingered Jack" evidently traveled the Valley road in and out of the San Joaquin Valley.

George Sims, who now lives at Hacienda Carmel, spent a number of years painstakingly restoring the old building. Plans were worked out with Hugh Comstock who did some of the early work, retaining the original ranch house quality of the adobe, while introducing modern conveniences.

Its tile floors, plank flooring with handmade pegs and thick adobe walls give a picture of solid comfort. The 100 year old tile came from the roof of the Vasquez adobe in Monterey, the walls were restored with adobe bricks made of Carmel Valley soil.

Although Carmel Valley's only old adobe still appears as historical landmark on some maps, it is a private home and is not open to the public. Its beauty and tranquility are enjoyed as a retreat by the present owners, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Millard, who purchased it from Mr. Sims.

CV Chamber hears reports

organizations in the Valley supply names of their new officers to include in a list being prepared by the Chamber.

After a talk by Ed Haber, the Chamber approved the plans in principle for the new hotel with integrated gas station at the entrance to CV Golf and Country Club.

He said that three conventions are already booked for the hotel next year and two years from now, even before construction and information on costs. Rates will be about half way between those of the Mark Thomas Inn and Del Monte Lodge, he said.

Haber estimated that the hotel would generate $25,000 in property taxes for the area.

Paul Porter reported on a meeting with PG&E officials, CVPOA and CV Commercial Property Owners Association representatives on bringing natural gas further up the Valley. A study to be completed in two months is being made by PG&E to determine costs.

If Rancho Fiesta, another retirement development planned for the Valley, is completed, and then easily to the Village, gas would be extended there, Porter said the PG&E officials explained.

"We could have gas a year from this spring," Porter said.

He also reported on a meeting with Ed Bevins of the county health dept. on possibilities of a sewer system. President Tom Hefling, who presided at the CC meeting, commented he was glad to see that this is another area in which the Chamber can build better relations with the CVPOA through cooperation.

Proofs for the Chamber's new four-color brochure of the Valley, being handled by The Outlook, were approved. Hefling praised the brochure committee, including Porter, Lou Gardner, and Paul Jones.

Special thanks were expressed to photographer George Seideneck who provided most of the color photos without cost.

Balance in the Chamber treasury is $1,628.68, including $96.35 netted from sales of tickets for the evening performance at White Oaks Theatre.

Chamber members are invited to participate in "Salinas Host Day" May 25, on tours of the area sponsored by the Salinas Chamber of Commerce for leaders of 22 communities. Those interested in participating are asked to contact Lori Swiss at the CV Chamber.

Barrel Race, 13 to 17: 1st, Sally McKenzie; 2nd, Kris Swanson; 3rd, Cindy Young.

Foot & Tandom, open: 1st, Ann Springer & Jena Brinsmead; 2nd, Cindy Young and Diana Young; 3rd, Nadena Wilson and Denise Piper.
